Oklahoma Brute Expiates His Bestial Crime in Midst of Burning Brush Heap

CAPTURED BY ONE OF HIS OWN RACE

Barbaric Scene Enacted at Purcell While Sheriffs Were Locked Up in Court House—Victim of Mob's Fervor Had Attacked Woman and Set Fire to Her House—Negro's Shrieks Greeted With Cheers.

Purcell, Okla., Aug. 24.—While 3,000 men, women and children stood by, shouting their approval, Peter Carter, a negro, who had been captured by the members of his own race, identified as the man who last night attacked Mrs. Minnie Spraggins, wife of a farmer, was burned to death on a brush pile in the main street of Purcell late this afternoon.

Sheriffs Under Lock and Key. Deputy Sheriff Hayes and Under Sheriff Harris, who attempted to rescue the negro from the crowd, were overpowered and locked in the court house.

Woman Was Alone in Home. Mrs. Spraggins was assaulted while alone in her home, one mile south of Purcell. After the deed the negro set fire to the Spraggins home. Carter was found and taken into custody, but on the way to jail he escaped.

Captured by a Negro. This afternoon Hugh Henry, a negro janitor, noticed a strange negro hiding under a box car near the railway station. He pulled him from beneath the car and it proved to be Carter. He was taken to the main street of Purcell, where a great crowd had gathered.

Farmer Assumes Command. "Turn that nigger over to me," said a tall farmer who suddenly stepped forward and assumed command of the crowd. The janitor and his two aides obeyed. At this juncture Deputy Sheriff

DECLARES GEIDEL TOLD HIM OF THE MURDER.

HE DID NOT INTEND TO KILL

Said Jackson Was a Good Old Man, But He Wanted His Money—Saw Blood on Geidel's Shirt, He Said.

New York, August 24.—The nerve of Paul Geidel, the 31-year-old bellboy, accused of the murder of William H. Jackson, an aged Wall street broker, was this afternoon given the severest test that the youth has endured since his arrest. Patrick McGrane, Geidel's room mate, called as a witness against his chum, graphically related the story he declared Geidel told him of the murder after the first newspaper extras came out describing the crime.

Story of Geidel's Chum. "Paul was reading a newspaper and had given others," said McGrane. "He showed me the story of Mr. Jackson's death and said he was the fellow he had climbed into the bathroom of Jackson's suite by going through the window, and waited there until he thought Jackson was asleep."

Did Not Intend to Kill Jackson. "When he went into the room he said he jumped on the bed, grasped Mr. Jackson by the throat and that they fell to the floor. Then he said he investigated the matter and he thought the rag down his throat. He said he did not intend to kill Mr. Jackson. He said Jackson was a good old man and gave him large tips and that he only went there for his money."

Geidel Unmoved by Testimony. Young Geidel was about the only person in the room who was unmoved during the testimony of McGrane. All the attorneys of both sides rose to their feet. Judge Crain and the jury leaned toward the witness. But the bellboy had his face in his hands, his elbows on the table and did not move while his roommate was speaking.

Saw Shirt Covered with Blood. McGrane went on to tell about Geidel's coming into their room with his shirt still covered with blood. "I heard him come in and I rolled over in bed and looked at him and saw the blood," he said. "He said he had been in a fight and guessed he had killed a man. Then I went to sleep."

Threw Cuff Buttons Down Sewer. "Despite the fact that he had killed a man, you were not at all interested," declared Attorney Gray of the defense.

"No, sir," Geidel answered. "When McGrane told of throwing some cuff buttons down the sewer he was asked whether Geidel had told him to throw the buttons away. McGrane answered that he had."

Not Trying to Save Himself. "Did you make up this whole story to save yourself from an accusation of a more serious crime than receiving stolen property?" demanded Mr. Gray.

"No, sir," Geidel answered. "Detective Jeremiah Barber was recalled and questioned regarding statements Geidel had made. He asked him to get into the hall through the basement," said the detective, "went to the tenth floor by means of the elevator and found Jackson's door bolted on the inside. He then climbed through the bathroom window and saturating a wash rag with chloroform, he entered the room. A struggle followed which ended when Geidel thrust the cloth into Mr. Jackson's mouth. He said that he saw some cuff buttons and $75 in cash from the room."

IMPORTANT CONFERENCE TO BE HELD ON MONDAY

Will Determine Whether There Will Be Strike on Harriman Lines.

Kansas City, Mo., August 24.—A conference between the international presence of the railroad strike which may involve railroad employees throughout the Harriman system is to be held here today. Monday, according to M. F. Ryan, international president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Car Men, whose office is here.

"It looks like a big strike unless the management of the Harriman system consents to confer with union men," Mr. Ryan said. "Several months ago five labor organizations decided to cease dealing with the railroad separately and banded together. They asked the railroads to treat with them as a unit. Many roads consented, but the Harriman lines refused."

Mr. Ryan said the labor organizations in question were the car men, blacksmiths, boiler-makers, sheet metal workers and machinists.

WOMAN WITNESS TELLS OF BEATTIE'S COMPANIONSHIP

SHOWING MOTIVE OF MURDER

Letter to the Young Woman Introduced

Beattie Appears Greatly Amused During Trial, Evinces No Emotion.

Chesterfield Courthouse, Vt., Aug. 24.—On this, the anniversary of his marriage to the woman he stands accused of murdering, Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., sat in the stuffy courtroom today and heard seven witnesses called by the commonwealth give testimony as to which the prosecution hopes to send him to the electric chair.

On Verge of Laughter. On the courthouse lawn only a few feet away, stood the blood-soaked automobile in which the young wife met her death. Beattie himself calmly in the witness chair, he arrived today and not once during the proceedings did he show any signs of blanching. Twice during the cross examination of the detectives he flushed with amusement and struggled to hold back his laughter.

Seven Witnesses Testified. Of the seven witnesses examined, two were physicians, Dr. Herbert Mann and Dr. Wilbur Mercer, who examined Louise Beattie's body on the night of the murder. The others were Thomas Owen, a court stenographer and uncle of Mrs. Beattie; Detectives Warren and Whitaker of Richmond, who investigated the case; Coroner Lovins of Chesterfield county, and May Stuard, a stout, middle aged woman, who told of Beattie's associations with Binford.

Beattie's Associations With Miss Binford. When the first witness, called merely to establish the death of Mrs. Beattie, his testimony was largely a review of what came out at the inquest and it was not until the Stuart woman took the stand that the prosecution began to attempt to establish motives for the crime. She swore to being the proprietor of a resort in Richmond and that Beattie had appeared there with the Binford girl and that he had been there for some time, the last time on July 17, the night before the crime. Beattie Binford, she testified, she had known for years.

A Letter Introduced. After having the witness describe how Beattie and his 17 year old companion had visited her place, the commonwealth introduced in evidence a letter written by the defendant to the Binford girl and identified as such at the inquest. Penned on his father's business stationery, Beattie wrote in part:

"Dear Kid: Pay this on the furniture and make him give you a furnished account of what evidence a letter written by the defendant to the Binford girl and identified as such at the inquest. Penned on his father's business stationery, Beattie wrote in part:

NEW BRIDGE DEDICATED

WITH IMPOSING CEREMONIES.

Yesterday a Holiday for Towns of Saybrook and Old Lyme.

Old Saybrook, Conn., Aug. 24.—The new bridge over the Connecticut river, which is the last link in the one connecting the eastern part of the state with the western, in the plan for a state highway along the Long Island sound, was formally dedicated this afternoon by the commission which supervised its construction. It marked the passing of the old means of transportation across the great water divide of Connecticut and the completion of one of many important projects undertaken in the internal development of the state.

To the little towns of Old Saybrook and Old Lyme the occasion was a holiday such as neither saw before. Bands in both towns had ushered in the programme with concerts, and an automobile parade formed at Saybrook Junction and extended to the center of Old Lyme, providing a splendid spectacle.

It was estimated that fully seven hundred machines, several hundred of them gorgeously decorated, were in the column which was headed by a car in which rode the guests of the day.
